EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

In order to discharge functions entrusted to the Authority under the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India Act, 1997, it follows a consultative and transparent approach by conducting open house sessions involving service providers, consumers, consumer organisations, NGOs etc. Among various stakeholders of telecommunications services, consumers are the largest. It is not practically possible for TRAI to interact with every consumer. Consumer Organisations or NGOs can, therefore, provide a major linkage/interface between the consumers and the Authority, ensuring efficient discharge of its functions. Recognizing this fact, TRAI had notified the Regulation on Guidelines for Registration of Consumer Organisations/NGOs and their Interaction with TRAI, 2001 in January, 2001.

2. The recent registration process has brought to light certain deficiencies in the Regulation on Guidelines for Registration of Consumer Organisations/NGOs and their Interaction with TRAI, 2001. The applicant organisations were facing inconvenience and difficulties in proper filing of applications and at the same time, in the absence of proper documentations, TRAI was facing problems in screening and scrutiny of applications. Hence, a need was felt to introduce clear and transparent guidelines regarding the documents to be filed along with application for registration, selection process adopted by the Authority, process of renewal of registration, obligation and role of registered consumer organisations.
3. Some of the infirmities observed in the “Registration of Consumer Organisations/NGOs and their Interaction with TRAI, 2001” regulations are summarized below:

- The regulation does not mandate submission of authenticated translation of vital documents such as registration certificate, Memorandum of Associations, Rules & Regulations of the Organizations, Annual Report/activity report etc. in Hindi or English, in case the originals are in vernacular language.

- The regulation stipulates that the applicant organisations to be non-profit and non-political. It, however, does not prescribe the document to be submitted to establish the non-profit non-political status of the organization.

- The selection process, screening of application, criteria adopted for selection and rejection of applications are not defined.

- The regulation also does not clearly prescribe the procedure for renewal of registration, exit policy for the registered organisations or grounds of removal from the registered list.

- The regulation also does not provide for verification of the credentials of an organization to represent the consumers at the national level.
4. In order to remove the infirmities and deficiencies noticed in the regulations and to streamline the registration process, it was found necessary to bring out new regulations, clearly prescribing the documents to be filed along with the application form, selection process adopted by the Authority, process of renewal of registration, obligation and role of registered consumer organisations. Accordingly, the draft “Registration of Consumer Organisations Regulations, 2012 (2 of 2012)” were released on 26.11.2012, seeking the comments of the stakeholders.

5. During the consultation process, while most of the stakeholders have agreed with the proposed draft regulations, there were concerns on some of the proposed regulations.

6. Some of the stakeholders had expressed concerns on the definition of the “Act”. Their concerns have been adequately addressed in the regulations as the provision in the regulations covering registration under “any other Act” includes registration under any relevant Act enacted by the Central Government or the State Government.

7. Some of the stakeholders had suggested that consumer organisations dealing with consumer issues relating to telecom sector should be given preference for registration. At present there is no such restriction in the regulations on the number of consumer organisations which can be registered from a State or a Union Territory. But in case the Authority decides to restrict the number of consumer organisations from a State or Union Territory and the number of consumer organisations who have applied for registration is more than such number, priority will be given to those consumer organisations who have experience in handling consumer issues relating to telecom sector.

8. Some of the stakeholders had also suggested that the tenure and the renewal period of the consumer organisations may be increased from the proposed two years. The analysis of work done by the organization in the first two years will give TRAI an idea about the capability of the organization and its usefulness to TRAI. This will enable TRAI to take decision as to whether the tenure can be extended or not. The initial registration period of three years as suggested by some of the organisations will be a long period for assessing the capabilities. It will also deprive TRAI to take remedial action, in case of non-performing organisations.

9. In order to bring in uniformity in the selection process and to ensure that organisations genuinely interested in consumer welfare are registered, the Regulation on Guidelines for Registration of Consumer Organisations/NGOs and their Interaction with TRAI, 2001 has been repealed and the CAGs, which were registered in terms of the above regulation, have to apply afresh in terms of the new regulations.
